Corporate Emails (the phishing minigame)

Due to unfortunate circumstances, every morning there is a last minute email you need to respond to that was sent. However, there were also a couple phishing and AI emails among them. Spot the correct email in the sea of many by selecting it as the correct answer within the form. Imposters and crew will compete, and the group with respondents that select the correct email a larger percentage of time will net a point (if no one responds in a team, the point will go to the other team). After three rounds the crew must have more points in order to successfully retrieve a hint.

Incorrect Emails will have

- wrong address & link (phishing from outside)
- distinctly written by the AI and encouraging bad practices
- Or some combo (e.g. AI, instead of encouraging bad practices, runs an attack like click this link)

It is advised to have the link to your inbox preopen, so when the morning hits, you are able to refresh and quickly respond to the emails.
